I say, that the rector of my parish, whom, for the sake of perspicuity, I shall call Travers, had a daughter. Oh such a daughter! When I came to reside at Claremont, slie had barely completed her seventeenth year. Sir, you never beheld the picture of an angel so beautiful, you never will behold a real angel (if there be such things), worthy to stand a comparison with her, and her mind, and heart, and disposition; there exists not her fellow throughout the universe. I loved her madly; but my love for her, like my love for every thing else, was purely selfish. Judging of her from the specimens of her sex which had heretofore crossed me, I dreamed that it would be no tiillicult matter to obtain her on my own terms; so I laboured assiduously, but with extreme caution, to...
