Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 395 pages. The Lobbyist, by Thomas Hibbard, is a hard-hitting and smart political thriller that will keep you guessing and asking for more. The story is a study of government ambition, flawed characters, and hidden agendas, set in the compelling world of Los Angeles county government, a hornets nest of intrigue, political infighting, and murder. It is also a story fueled by the central theme that no matter how filled ones life may be with trials and tribulations, in the end, happiness is found in the love of another. Tom Burton, former Chief Deputy to L. A. Supervisor John Howard, finds himself being investigated by attractive L. A. Times reporter Kathy Boyd, who has been assigned to Tom as a promising source for information on allegations of possible county corruption involving Toms ex-boss. But, Tom is no friend of the press and Kathy finds her assignment less than productive, until Tom finds himself the main suspect in Howards murder. With all evidence pointing in Toms direction, including knowledge that he had a grudge against Howard before his death, Tom sees the writing on the wall. Ultimately, Tom and Kathy find their unlikely pairing mutually advantageous, and a rocky relationship ensues. When the County Sheriff and District Attorney move to prosecute Tom, and Kathy becomes the target of drug dealers who she had exposed in past reporting, the two find their lives changed forever in ways they could never have imagined. Told with grit and showing more than a little hard-boiled attitude, The Lobbyist is filled with multifaceted characters and complex subplots. Beautifully paced and written in masterful prose, Thomas Hibbard has written a book that ranks with the best in the political thriller genre. The Lobbyist is sure to please any thriller buff, as well...
