Marshall, of California, in the House of Representatives, January 6, 1853, in the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, on the Conduct of the Present Administration in Regard to Cuba, and Our Foreign Policy Generally In 1849, just at the accession of General Taylor, Soulouque made the most formidable attack upon Dominica which it had sustained. He reached within two days march of Santo Domingo city, and with a force apparently irresistible. The in difference and neglect of the United States had extinguished all hope of interposition on our part, and in despair the Dominicans applied for a French protectorate. This would have been accepted by France at once, and the Bay of Samaria (a point of more importance than Havana, and which, it is rumored, she has at last taken possession of) ceded to her - the island, in fact, would have become her property, but for the interference of the British Minister, who gave notice that Great Britain would not consent to it. The correspondence on this subject, copied...
