Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Claims of Decorative Art While maintaining the first importance of the arts and crafts of design as contributing to the formation of a fine sense of beauty - a sense which grows by what it feeds on, I have dwelt upon the necessity of harmonious relation in all the arts, and a return to their primal unity in architecture. In this fraternal unity none is before or after the other, none is greater or less than the other. If I may have succeeded in making out a case for the arts now called Decorative and Applied (though there is but one if I have made good their claim to consideration in an age given largely to place pictorial and graphic power first; if even any of the following papers induce my readers to follow the clue for themselves, and especially to think out further the relation of art to labour and to social life, whether they reach the same conclusions or not, my book will serve its purpose. Some few of the papers have been printed in various journals, and I have to thank the editor of the Art 70mm! For permission to reprint The Claims of Decorative Art.
