Great were the drinking, and dancing that night, and the gray dawn found most of the Abelsberger men and women, Liberal and Clerical, in all sorts of undignified positions just where they had fallen. The gypsy band has disappeared, and whatever may have been the decision of pope and emperor, the bass-viol has not been seen in Ober-Abelsberg since that memorable night. ETCHINGS: SENTENCED She had been feeling out of sorts for a long time, not really ill, but languid and tired. She had tried this remedy and that one to no avail, and her friends advised her to go to a certain celebrated doctor. He will tell you plainly, they said, what is really the matter with you. So she went. The doctor examined her. He told her plainly what was the matter. You have heart disease. You may live a year----you may die to-morrow, he said. That was plain enough, wasn't it? Yet somehow she did not seem to understand it. She wondered if she was stupid, the words had so little meaning to her. As she walked to her car she was so painfully alive to other impressions that she wondered why she could not comprehend the doctor's words. She said them over, counting them on her fingers--thirteen--thirteen was an unlucky number. A servant was emptying a pan of potato-parings into an alley, and she noticed that the parings were thick, as though they...
