THE internal trade of Bengal has next attracted the inquiries of Your Committee. The great and valuable articles of the Company s Investment, drawn from the articles of internal trade, are raw silk, and various descriptions of piece goods made of silk and cotton. These articles are not under any formal monopoly; nor does the Company at present exercise a declared right of pre-emption with regard to them. But it does not appear that the trade in these particulars is or can be perfectly free; not so much on account of any direct measures taken to prevent it, as from the circumstances of the country, and the manner of carrying on business there. For the present trade, even in these articles, is built from the ruins of old monopolies and pre-emptions, and necessarily partakes of the nature of its materials. In order to show in what manner manufactures and trade so constituted contribute to the prosperity of the natives, Your Committee conceives it proper to take, in this place, a short general view of the progress of the English policy with relation to the commerce of Bengal, and the several stages and gradations, by which it has been brought into its actual state. The modes of abuse, and the means, by which com/nerce has suffered, will be considered considered in greater detail under the distinct heads of those objects, which have chiefly suffered by them. During the time of...
