Finally, mention must be made here of another Middle-Class School, the plan for which existed as early as 1862, therefore before the introduction of the Law, but which was not opened till that period, namely the Twente Industrial and Commercial School at Enschede. The plan was projected by the Twente-Association for the Promotion of Industry and Commerce. The rather considerable capital for erecting the requisite buildings and purchasing the school-appliances, was got together by certain individuals and Societies. The State and the Commune have granted annual subsidies. As the curriculum of this school corresponds almost entirely 8 with that of the subsequently founded Higher Burgher-schools with a five years curriculum, it is not necessary to mention it here separately, but it may be included among those established by virtue of the Law of 1863. B. State of matters from 1863...
