HIGH EFFICIENCY REAL-TIME SENSOR/ACTUATOR CONTROL AND DATA PROCESSING

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: VDM Verlag Dr. Müller | A framework solution for control systems in biomimetic autonomous robots | The advances in sensor and actuator technology foster the use of large multi-transducer networks in many different fields. The increasing complexity of biologically-inspired architectures requires high efficiency interconnection and co-operation of several control and processing modules. A real-time approach for data analysis requires the realization of interconnected modules which are capable to establish an efficient communication channel. In this way the...
