In many cultures the idea of a boy living on the moon who is fishing all the time is quite a common concept. This image of a crescent moon with a boy fishing off it has even made it into a film maker s trade mark. However, the question must be asked, How did he get there and does he ever get bored? The answers to these important questions are to be found in the starbrights. What are the starbrights? Glistening, glittering, sparkling shapes speak in squeaky voices to a boy when the sun shines on his local pond water. Will the Grandparents of the boy without a name believe him that the starbrights speak? Will he trust the starbrights and take up their offer? If you want to contact the author e-mail I also need an artist for the book covers - anyone interested?.
