BPS Books, Canada, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Precise, practical, poetic, and powerful These are just four of many superlatives that could be used to describe #8212 but which would only begin to describe #8212 the artistry and crystal-clear insight of Jon Barnard Gilmore s new book. For this is a book like no other, on a subject that millions of people will be registering to study as our population ages. As will prove true for so many readers, retirement for Gilmore has led to a series of surprises, by turns sobering and joyful. As a professor of Psychology, with many more years of teaching ahead of him before he would turn sixty-five, Gilmore was surprised to find himself falling in love with the Kootenay region of British Columbia following a chance encounter during a long drive to California. He was also surprised, a few years later, to find himself bidding on property there and then applying for early retirement from his teaching position. Kaslo, B.C., was where he thought he would live year-round. But divorce #8212 a further surprise #8212 and a new relationship have meant that he now divides his time between two regions of startling beauty: his B.C. home and the Caledon hills near Toronto. Perhaps most surprising to Gilmore has been his discovery that the real work of any life begins when we retire: that retiring consists of a series of personal and relational tasks through which we might achieve a better understanding of ourselves, and of our past, present, and future. Jon Barnard Gilmore, Ph.D., is also the author of In Cold Pursuit: Medical Intelligence Examines the Common Cold. Prior to retiring he taught Introductory Psychology to thousands of appreciative students at the University of...
