Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.2in.Excerpt from The American Girl in the Stockyards District: An Investigation Carried in Under the Direction of the Board of the University of Chicago Settlement and the Chicago Alumnae Club of the University of ChicagoIn the stockyards district, as in every other foreign industrial community, the American-born girl lives between two determining influences, the unseen traditions of the Old World and the visible customs of the New. The foreign parent and the American child are under one roof, struggling with the misunderstandings common to age and youth but intensified by the natural desire of the one to cling to inherited standards and by the strong young will of the other to be a vital part of the present generation. It is the purpose of this survey to consider some of the phases of this difficult environment and in dealing with them to reveal as far as possible the mental attitudes of both parent and child as they affect the future of the potential woman. The 900 families who form the background of the study have been known to the University of Chicago...
