Christians should be bright and beautiful through all their youthful life, and gorgeous as they grow old and are about to step into the kingdom of Gods glory. Behold! he prayeth, may almost be said to be the description of the beginning of the Christian life. The great art of living Christianly is to have conscience for the undertone, and to have love for the upper, and, if possible, for the stronger experience. There is no point so critical of Christian character as the power to maintain love toward all men--not a love of personal attraction, but a love of benevolence, that begets a willingness to bear with them and work for them. The New Testament designs the Christian man to be a child of light and joy. Bearing fruit, sweet, luscious, and blessed, is the business of the Christian life. Though thousands love...
