It can be related to broader emotional issues that need attention. Most of the time, cutting is not a suicide attempt. Cutting affects many teens and preteens - even beyond those who self-injure. Many teens worry about a friend who cuts, or face pressure from peers to try cutting as a daring thing to do. In many cases, cutting - and the emotions that go along with it - is something teens struggle with alone. But because of growing awareness, more teens can get the assistance they need. Cutting among teenagers is on the rise. Under great stress from teachers, peers, and parents to excel, it is one way that they try to get relief. Here is one family s story.
