Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .South Africa has a mineral resources rich, strong and resilient infrastructure development focused economy supported by well organized financial sector and monetary authority. However, like in the rest of Africa, the indigenous people have little benefit they get from the resources the country is endowed with. In South Africa, the government has implemented several mechanisms to address that in order to bring the formally marginalized people into the mainstream economy. However, the rate at which the indigenous population is economically empowered means it will take time to reach the majority and this has resulted in negative energy and change politics. This economic empowerment series aims to supplement the programmes implemented by the government of South Africa to economically empower the indigenous populace en masse. The series have taken cognizance of the fact that most African children, including most South African children, grow in environments where their parents cannot teach them about business and money at a tender age. This has led to the country being economically dominated by a minority with the knowledge even after years of attaining freedom from apartheid. It is only a few black majority making a cut into business. Now this is everyone's opportunity to make it into business. Allow this book to be the opportunity that you never had. Get an invaluable insight into some of the business opportunities that can economically empower you and many others based purely on hard-work individually or in partnerships with or without government assistance. Here is a chance for Africa to create Heroes from Zeroes!.
