I then proceed with thymol or cassia, preferring the former for the anterior teeth, and apply the current again and again until every particle of oil is absorbed by the tooth. When applying the current to the oil you will observe minute electrical sparks flying in all directions; the heat alone should be sufficient to destroy microbes, bacteria, or any other kind of germs present. I then fill the upper or apical part of the root with the following preparation, in the form of a paste composed of alum, thymol, glycerol, oxid zinc. Placing a small piece on an old broach with barbs removed, I work it up, not being over-particular how far; then take a small piece of heated gutta-percha, force it into the canal, which drives the preparation ahead, thoroughly filling the canal and...
