Reviews

A brand new electronic book with a new standpoint. It is written in basic phrases rather than confusing. It has been designed in an extremely basic way which is merely right after I finished reading through this publication where it basically altered me, change the way I believe.

Excerpt: . . . OUTLINE PLAN OF LANGUAGE WORK AND GRAMMAR AND CONNECTIONS WITH THE WORK IN COMPOSITION The Central idea of the Plan is the development of the sentence as thought-unit, and the treatment of words and the machinery of written expression as functional elements of the sentence. New parts of speech, new sentence-forms, and new devices are considered as they come into view with the development of mental faculty and with the need of new symbols and modes of expression to keep pace with it. The approach is always to be inductive: information, rules, etc. , are to be given to meet actual developing needs arising in the process of mastering reading and writing. First Grade or Year. If Reading and Writing are begun, the mechanics of the simplest forms will absorb attention. The only terms to be used will be such simple ones as spell, word, stop, syllable, big and little A, B, C, etc. Second Grade or Year. The Sentence in its Simplest Form. Marks of: capital and period to indicate beginning and end of the sentence. Other forms of capitalization as needed, viz. : (a) Childs own name, and its substitute, I. (b) Childs own address, and abbreviations involved: initials. (c) Other persons and places. (d) Dates. Days of the week. Months. Distinguish prose and poetry (what is singable): rhyme; verse. (e) Begin each line of poetry with a capital. Q Use as a model of the self-sufficient sentence, the simple proverb and...
