Stringer, of New Romney, appeared on behalf of the trustee, and Butler, of Rye, for the mortgagee. William Sims, the bankrupt, examined by Butler, stated that he was a carpenter and builder at Lydd. In 1864 he took a business at Lydd. He had 1001. from Furley and Co. , and his father and Mr. Peter Burgess were security. He promised to insure his life as security, but had neglected to do so. His father repeatedly asked him for his security. In 1869 he bought a piece of ground of Mr. James Weir for 901. He built two houses on that ground, and mortgaged them for 2001. On the 8th June, when he received the 2001. , he saw his father at Rye, and told him he had the money. He told his father the houses were worth about 3501. or 380. His...
