Xlibris. Paperback. Condition: New. 94 pages. Dimensions: 8.8in. x 6.0in. x 0.3in. Well, gentle readers, I hope you've enjoyed your journey with me as much as I have telling you of it. There are many times that I fought technology; some of the time technology won. I had a listing for which twenty-five agents had shown, but no offers had been received. A gentleman and his wife, who were residents of London, England, saw the property listing in the Internet, made an offer, and flew into Houston and promptly closed on the home. Hooray for technology! Some of my most pleasant and enjoyable clients have been CEOs and their families, many of who were relocating from New York City. Most are amazed at the lovely houses that have been available at great prices, compared with the cost of homes in the New York area. Some of them have even sent referrals, which are always welcome and encouraged. In closing, I must tell you of one experience that will remain forever in my heart and mind-not all my experiences have been difficult or bizarre. There was a time, before attending real estate school, when I was absolutely awestricken by a beautiful home which was located in a nearby subdivision. It was dark red saltbox style with a beautifully landscaped yard, featuring a split-rail fence, eagle statue, many flowering herbs and ornamentals, and a flagpole which was always showing Old Glory flapping in the breeze. I would drive past this house at every opportunity, whether happy or sad, in good weather and bad; I simply adored the house and was made happy just viewing its exterior. As they say, it's a small world. The owners of this house were friends of a friend. I had not told my friend of my frequent journeys...
