The Question Of A General ConVention. 4 The first General Convention of our brotherhood was held in Cincinnati, in 1849, beginning October 24, and continued, with the preliminary meeting, five days. The conviction had been for some time ripening in the minds of our most thoughtful men, that the necessity had come for such a national meeting representative of our people. The wisdom and propriety of calling such a convention were for the months preceding very fully and freely discussed in our press, and our ablest men participated in this discussion. It would be interesting to read over again, at a distance of over forty years, the grounds and arguments that were offered pro and con. The grand men of that day understood well the whole question, and I do not think that the years that have since passed have brought forth...
