The daily average population for the period was 174, which is an increase of nine patients for the biennium. Five hundred twenty-six patients have been paroled, and there were remaining in the institution June 30, 1914, 158. During the period 90 men left the institution without permission. This is a much less number than the previous biennial period, when 130 escaped. Twenty-five per cent of all the patients committed to this hospital have a ground parole. One cottage, Walnut Lodge, has no guards or locks of any kind, and the patients govern themselves, having no attendant supervision day or night. On June 30,1914, 707 men were on parole. Each man is required to report every thirty...
