Not illustrated. 1836 Excerpt: .Carolina, but at last most of the growers of Sea-island cotton have returned to their first and most simple tool, -- viz., two wooden rollers, kept together by a wooden frame, and inserted into iron cranks, having a round journal, and a square shaft, upon which is fixed a wooden or iron fly wheel from two to three feet in diameter. The iron cranks which turn the rollers are connected by strips of wood with a treadle worked by the foot. This treadle runs under the machine, and is connected at the further end to the floor of the house (like the treadle of a turning-lathe) by sockets within which it moves. The man stands therefore in front of the rollers, with a board interposed, upon which he holds a large handful of Sea-island cotton, which he presents from time to time to the rollers kept revolving...
