By Fritz Fritz

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Eiffel Tower: Paris, 1889 It is calculated that about persons can ascend per day, and taking the average cost per head to be 3fr. We have here alone a gross revenue of about francs per day away and apart from this there are many other minor sources of revenue, so that allowing for all sorts of contingencies, some millions of francs may be netted by the spirited undertaker of this work, ere yet the Paris Exhibition is a thing Of the past. why call a man mad and a fool, who has sufficient pluck and ingenuity to attempt something never before attempted. We should rather blame, if blame be called for, the morbid taste of the present generation, the ever increasing craving for something new, startling and sensational, The supply follows the demand, and always will. The Tower stands some 300 yards Off the south side of the Seine, near the Jena Bridge, and its base forms an immense archway over the main path leading from this bridge to the central grounds of the Exhibition. The Tower at its base covers...

Reviews

Absolutely essential read through ebook. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. I am just delighted to inform you that this is actually the finest ebook i actually have read through during my own existence and might be he greatest publication for actually.
