Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, Office of Healthy Homes and Lead Hazard Control, 2009 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)733046238 Subject: Housing and health -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 3) Federal Partners - Bolstered by the success of the healthy homes approach, other federal programs have begun to incorporate, or expand on healthy homes concepts. Improved coordination with these programs will increase the reach and impact of the Healthy Homes program. While many agencies have contributed to program accomplishments, there are especially timely opportunities to develop new initiatives with respect to HUD, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), and the U. S. Department of Energy (DOE). CDC has partnered with HUD in its healthy homes efforts via an interagency agreement providing funds from the OHHLHC. CDC continues to demonstrate a commitment to the healthy homes approach through its agency wide Goal Action Plan for Healthy Homes and recent plans to transition its Lead Poisoning Prevention Branch (LPPB) to a Healthy Homes and Lead Poisoning Prevention Branch. This change will allow CDC to transition Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program (CLPPP) grantees to the healthy homes approach. Additionally, CDC will pursue activities related to healthy homes including surveillance to track housing hazards and related health outcomes, and research on healthy homes interventions. The agency will leverage its existing programs in environmental health, injury prevention, and asthma to directly inform its new healthy homes priorities. As CDC expands its healthy homes efforts, it will be critical for HUD and CDC to coordinate research and program agendas. DOE programs support improving the energy efficiency of homes as well as other performance...
