The Haskell Institute is an unfinished enterprise. Only a portion of the building contemplated when it, was founded have been erected. It was planned to accommodate fiOO pupils when finished. Its maximum capacity, as it now stands, is 350, being only 2H more than is to-day in attendance. The superintendent thinks he will have it filled early in January next. We therefore recommend the following outlays to be made, and in doing this we. have availed ourselves of the experience of the architect who built the buildings already there, as well as have gathered up such other information upon the point as we could do from trustworthy sources.
