This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Diploma Thesis from the year 2006 in the subject Economics - International Economic Relations, grade: 1,0, University of Leipzig (Institut für Wirtschaftspolitik), 129 entries in the bibliography, language: English, comment: In the prevailing diploma thesis, I will argue that the current institutional structure of the multilateral trade negotiations is the decisive factor that limits considerable progress in agricultural trade liberalization. WTO members face a growing institutional complexity which does not allow for substantial liberalization steps. Rather, countries need to find alternative ways to improve their individual trade balance. , abstract: In the prevailing paper, I will argue that the current institutional structure of the multilateral trade negotiations is the decisive factor that limits considerable progress in the liberalization of international agricultural markets. WTO members face a growing institutional complexity which does not allow for substantial liberalization steps. Rather, countries need to find alternative ways to improve their individual trade balance. My examinations will base on the insights of the New Institutional Theory (NIE), which puts its scientific interest on institutions. Since institutions serve as a direct interface...
