THE first twenty years of the fifth century before the Christian era was a period of deep gloom and despondency throughout the Hellenic world. The Ionians had revolted and were conquered, for the third time; this time, however, the conquest was complete and final: they were overcome by sea as well as by land. Miletus, till then the chief city of Hellas, and rival of Tyre and Carthage, was taken and destroyed; the Phoenician fleet ruled the sea, and the islands of the iEgean became subject to Persia. The fall of Ionia, and the maritime supremacy of the Phoenicians, involving the interruption of Greek corrtmerce, must have exercised a disastrous influence on the cities of Magna Graecia. 1 The events which occurred there after the destruction of Sybaris are involved in great obscurity. We are told that some...
