THE best and most critical account of the History of Printing with movable type. Every document connected with the History of the Invention of Printing has been verified by the energetic and intelligent author. The mystery still remains who was the inventor of Printing That Gutenberg was an early printer Mr. Hessels fully admits. Only 200 copies were originally printed for sale. Mr. J. H. Hessels, the translator of Van der Lindes Coster Legend, commenced a series of articles about two years ago in the London Printing Times, under the title of Gutenberg: Was He the Inventor of Printing being a review of a more recent work by the same author entitled Gutenberg. The articles came to a sudden termination, the writer finding it necessary to consult various documents abroad in order to arrive at certain facts. The long silence which intervened has at last been broken by the appearance of a handsome volume, now before us, in which Mr. Hessels has endeavoured to clear up the mystery so long surrounding the identity of the first printer and in order to this he paid two visits to Paris and spent seven weeks in Germany exploring the libraries and archives of Strassburg, Mentz, and other prominent cities. While it is impossible to resuscitate the corpse of the mythical Holland proto-typographer Coster, the result of Mr. Hessels researches do not justify him in giving Gutenberg the credit of inventing the art, but only establishing the fact of his being a printer and he regrets that after all his labours he must leave the quest on which he started yet unsolved, summarizing the result of his investigation in the following statement...
