Excerpt from Oration, Pronounced at Boston, on the Fourth Day of July, 1811, Before the Supreme Executive and in Presence of the Bunker-Hill Association Those primary and fundamental principles of a well organized government, which for ages had been merely the pleasing theme of learned disquisition, or theoretical speculation, were by the adventurous advocates of free dom, established as the broad basis of an Independent Republic. The combined energies of an exasperated and heroic nation, were marshalled in hostile battalia, for the vindication of those inestimable sentiments which were implanted in the breast of every American.
