Excerpt from A Discourse Embodying Facts Connected With the Early Settlement and Growth of Mount Morris: Delivered at the Dedication of the Presbyterian Church Edifice, February 1, 1855 We have met, to-day, my hearers, and dedicated this house of worship. We have engaged in these interesting services with various emotions; we are in a new edifice. This pulpit, and these slips, and galleries, and windows, and walls and lamps are new; they have yet upon our minds all the charm of novelty - and, it is in the fresh light of this new scene, that I propose to contemplate the past. The old is always seen in the most vivid light, when in contrast with the new - and, by choosing this time and place to paint the past of this community, I have all the advantages of a striking light for my picture. In the sketch to be drawn, I would first direct the eye of my audience to the dim objects which lie in the dark and far off back-ground. Go back with me sixty-five years, to the period...
