Excerpt from Annual Observance of Washington s Birthday, by the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, S. C., 22d February, 1878 And now, my countrymen, on this secular Sabbath, sacred alike to memory and to hope, let us rejoice that we are not alone in our oh servance of this day. Not only in the populous centres of. The Republic, but as well the lonely and remote have their part in this com memoration. Where the boatman follows the winding stream, or the woodman explores the forest shades, where the miner lays down his eager drill beside rocks which guard the pre cious vein, or where the herdsman along the Sierras looks forth on the seas, which at our midnight shall be gleaming like gold in the setting sun - there also will the day be regard ed as a day of memorial. The sailor on the sea will note it, and deck his ship in its bright est array of ags and bunting. Everywhere will be those who have thought of to - day, and who with us greet its coming. Such is the day and the event we celebrate, one of the two holidays of the country, and in national esteem is identified with the birth of the nation itself. That which a hundred years ago was the unwritten creed in the hearts of all the people, has since received the sanction and solemnities of law, and the birth day of the Father of his Country has become a National Sabbath.
