On July 14, 1881 Sheriff Pat Garrett of Lincoln County, New Mexico and his posse were in pursuit of the notorious desperado Billy, The Kid. They arrived late in the evening at Fort Sumner, New Mexico more than 100 miles from where the Kid had broken out of jail and murdered his two guards. Although the Sheriff had relatives in Fort Sumner, he was not liked by the mostly Mexican townspeople and had few friends. The Kid, on the other hand, was a local hero. What followed that evening has been the subject of debate until the present day. After a long day of hiding out and waiting for the Kid to arrive, Pat Garrett claimed that he fatally shot the Kid at a local farmer s house where the Kid had come seeking some meat for his supper. There were four men who witnessed these events but for almost 40 years Sheriff Pat Garrett was the only one willing to comment on what happened. In addition, many didn t believe the sheriff s story and the local townspeople whispered that he had killed the wrong man. Finally, in 1919, Deputy John W. Poe finally told his story to author E.A. Brininstool who self published and distribrued his account in two printings. This volume represents the complete and unabridged version of Deputy Poe s narrative complete with illutrations of the prominent men it describes.
