There is an under-current of teaching running through the whole of revelation, which carries to the mind a lesson of mingled tribulation and gratitude. While it is true that man was made for happiness, and can only legitimately rejoice in that condition; yet since his renunciation of his first and blessed estate, since he has become a child of wrath, since true happiness has been exiled from this sin-stricken planet, it only remains for him to rejoice in those experiences and prospects which shall best conduce to his restoration to forfeited joys. Now is it a regimen of adversity or prosperity which will the better secure the coveted end? Most true it is that He whose other name is Love doth not afflict willingly nor grieve the children of men. Therefore He appoints for us a refluent pleasure to every outgoing effort. But as we have a haughty spirit whose pride cannot be curbed except by rigid rule, passions which cannot be quelled except by overmastering them, spiritual enemies only to be conquered by fierce conflict, temptations to be resisted but by crucial discipline, so is it also appointed to the end we may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing, conquerors, and more than conquerors, Christ being our Helper, that the broad arena of soul-effort should be darkly chequered with the shadows of adversity. Give place to the testimony of Paul, I...
