Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from John Warwick Daniel: Address Delivered at the Unveiling of Ezekiel's Statue of Senator Daniel, at Lynchburg, May 26, 1915 Successful from his youth in business, he was rich and generous without pretension or pride. Yet when the end of the Civil War prostrated his fortune and he became old and almost blind his easy dignity lost no feature of its serene composure, and out of his true heart came no complaint of man or fortune. As we view this portrait we seem to recognize the source of that peculiar charm which Daniel's colleague, Senator Lodge, so beautifully characterized, that grave courtesy, which never wavered; these manners, serious, gracious, elaborate, if you please, but full of kindness and thought for others, which can never really grow old or pass out of fashion, even in our hurried, hustling time. The winged years sweep swiftly past and soon a fresh picture greets our view. We see on the rostrum of the Lynchburg Military College a handsome youth of 16 years. His inborn tastes for debate and...
