WITH THE GREEK SOLDIERS J. and Turkish armies in the late campaign was but little more complicated than the strategic position of two football teams when they are lined up for a scrimmage. When the game began, the Greeks had possession of the ball, and they rushed it into Turkish territory, where they lost it almost immediately on a fumble, and after that the Turks drove them rapidly down the field, going around their ends and breaking through their centre very much as they pleased. The Greeks were outnumbered three to one, but there are many people who think that they would have run away even had the number of men on both sides been position of the Greek equal. There is, however, no way of proving that they would have done this, while it can be proved that they were outnumbered, and...
