Excerpt from The True Story of Boston Corbett: A Lincoln Assassination Mystery; Fifty Years After The barn was quickly surrounded, and another young Garrett who was found in hiding near by was made to hand over the key. The lieutenant unlocked the door, and called to the occupants to come out at once and surrender. There was no answer. Doherty walked around the building, and one of the soldiers in his cordon told him that the whispering of two persons inside was distinctly audible. Doherty therefore raised his voice to a little higher pitch and called: If you don t come out, I ll fire the building and burn you out! As there was still no response, he ordered one of his suite to pile up some dry rubbish against the back of the barn and set fire to it. A first instalment of shavings and hay was laid in place, and the man was going off for more, when a voice which was very clearly Booth s sounded from within If you come back, I ll put a bullet through you!
