The Monsanto Chemical Works has sent the following notice to the trade: Due to traffic congestion at 209 North LaSalle street, making it next to impossible for us to take care of incoming and outgoing shipments, we will remove our Chicago office and stock rooms to the seventh floor of the Boyce building, northeast corner of Illinois and Dearborn streets. There will be no interruption to business, as our office at 209 North LaSalle street will be fully maintained until we are ready for business at new address and in a position to handle all business with dispatch from our new quarters. Spanish quicksilver mines are just commencing to produce after their usual summer lay-off and are not offering metal for shipment before October. Italian mines have allowed stocks to get down low and cannot ship promptly. Stocks in London are also limited,...
