Making Your Practice Evidence-Based: A Self-Study Guide for GPS (Paperback)

By Kevork Hopayian

Royal College of General Practitioners, United Kingdom, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Making Your Practice Evidence Based: In an age where patients become more able to look into their own conditions and question established practice in both primary and secondary care, clinicians are increasingly being challenged as to their evidence. Evidence-based practice is a skill that once understood will serve as a basis for safe and effective clinical practice throughout a clinical career. This clear and concise self-study guide has all the basic knowledge you will want and which will help you to acquire the skills for evidence-base primary care, from understanding what questions to ask or are being answered by the paper in question, to the relevance to a patient during a consultation. What makes it so is the use of principles of active learning. It builds on learners existing knowledge, prompts reflection, guides readers to discovery of new concepts and reinforces learning through revisiting themes. Each chapter is self-contained and can be read separately for reference and for revision. The chapters come in two sections. The basic section equips the reader to take an evidence-based approach to all aspects of clinical practice. The...
