N o, I am convinced they must have been well aware that these laws were viewed by the people as a great infringement u n the principles of just legislation. Ever since that period, I have looke upon these laws as the master-iece of injustice and partiality. I would ask, How does it happen that t is country is so often visited with commercial distress? In 1816 we had a panic from, it was called, the return of peace; but I might add, from a bad cro, and the operation of the Corn Laws passed the year before. In 1819 we ad again another panic; in 1826 the Bank panic; in 1830 again a panic, and those engaged in the woollen trade will know, that wool was lower that year than at any period since the first American war. Then the panic of...
