Excerpt: . telegraphic despatch was then prepared for transmission to the Porte, and the assembly broke up. As the Cazee and Mufty walked home together the former said, -- My brother, what thinkest thou of the evidence of these men? Mufty.-- It seemed to me shamefully trumped up. I am scandalized at respectable, religious-looking persons like these giving before God such testimony in a case of life and death. Have they no fear of the Lord before their eyes? And so they conversed as they went along. The Cazee on the way called to mind the story of a sanctimonious witness discovered and discarded by a few close questionings of the Caliph Omar;-- Just so, he said, with these creatures who profess much piety, but practise it not, as it is said, They think to deceive God, but deceive only their own souls (Sura ii. 8). Alas! that it should have come to what I feared; but did not I tell you so from the first? How it went against us signing the warrant of this innocent man! And who knows but that the rest of the company may be likewise condemned on the evidence of such respectable witnesses? Rather than that, I would throw up my office and quit the city. The Mufty, however, set his mind at rest on that point. He had heard reports of the plot to get Omar condemned, with the ostensible object of being a lesson to the people,...
