THE THINGS WE ARDENTLY WISH FOR IN THIS LIFE, EITHER NEVER COME TO FASS, OR IF THEY SO IT IS TOO LATE. HENCE, BETTER LATE THAN NEVER. The whole of the morning passed off as quietly as any well wisher to our cause could desire. Towards twelve oclock it was our decision that licence-hunting was over, for the day any how, since no digger recollected a search for licence taking place on a Saturday afternoon. Our talk was of the coming meeting of the reform league at two oclock on Sunday, at the Adelphi, as announced at the monster meeting on Wednesday. The impression was almost general, that Charley would soon dismiss the hated brood of our commissioners, and things would then be all right. Off to get a bite, was the pass-word. I assert as a matter of fact, and a living eye-witness, that between one and two oclock on Saturday, December 2nd, 1854, the Eureka stockade was comparatively deserted. Those who remained (some one hundred) were such, as either had a long distance to go to reach their tents, and the day was very hot, or such as had no tent or friend on Ballaarat. I took notice of this very circumstance from my tent, the second from the stockade, on the hill, west, whilst frying a bit of steak on the fire of my tent chimney, facing said stockade: Manning was peeling an onion. I transcribe the Above from the identical...
