Penguin Books Ltd, United Kingdom, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. The most entertaining yet substantial historical novel since Joseph O Connor s Star of the Sea Irish TimesThe Herbalist is the electrifying first novel from Niamh Boyce, winner of the 2012 Hennessy XO Award for New Irish Writing. it is a devastating and emotional story of yearning and obsession in 1930s rural Ireland.Out of nowhere the herbalist appears and sets up his stall in the market square. Teenager Emily is spellbound by the exotic stranger - here is a man of the world who won t care that she s not respectable.However, Emily has competition for the herbalist s attentions. It seems the women of her small town are all mesmerized by the visitor who, they say, can perform miracles.When Emily discovers the miracle-worker s dark side, her world turns upside down. She may be naive, but she has a fierce sense of right and wrong. With his fate lying in her hands, Emily must make the biggest decision of her young life. To make the herbalist pay for his sins against the women of the town? Or let him escape to cast his spell on another place? An elegant morality tale about the inescapable strictures of women s lives . Her publisher describes her as a dazzling new voice . I cannot disagree Sunday Times A vividly imagined tale of love, lust and longing . a compelling read with a cathartic ending that deserves a wide readership. It remains authentic and moving to the end Sunday Business Post Boyce s subject matter may be dark, and she treats it with the seriousness it deserves, but she writes with a lightness of touch not often seen in the genre . just as the readers of...
