Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: .record for the entire membership always reveals the fact that some are overdoing and others are underdoing, a condition arising more from inadequate direction of church responsibilities than from either inability or unwillingness for church work. On the reverse side of this card, a schedule is to be filled out regarding other members of the family not affiliated with the church. If the ideal of church membership consists of the affiliation of Christian families rather than the affiliation of Christian individuals, then all the names on this reverse side of the card should become the burden of the church until each name is transferred to the front side of the card. This record card should accompany the transfer certificate of membership, when the family removes from one charge to another. The schedules might be printed on cardboard, and arranged alphabetically for a card index file, or...
