Research Unlimited, Inc., Dover, de, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This publication is concerned with the sometimes underrated D.C. Public School System. The former Mayor of the District of Columbia, Adrian Fenty appointed Michelle Rhee as the Chancellor of the District of Columbia school system. With little or no experience(s), she took control of a school system that had produced outstanding national and local leaders. This is a predominately Black School System that is controlled by congress, without an elected school board. The citizens of Washington, D.C. do not have a vote in either the House of Representatives or the United States Senate. The President of the United States is beginning to understand the plight of the District of Columbia education. Arne Duncan the Secretary of Education apparently is not aware of what has happened in the city. He just hired Victor Reinoso as a high power consultant for the Department of Education. He was guilty of Plagiarism. He copied the Charlotte Mecklenburg Plan for the District of Columbia school system. At this point, we don't have congressional leaders who would condemn these types of action, or would fight for the city of Washington, D.C. to have the financial resources, equal rights and responsibilities for the school system. Michelle Rhee used an overnight evaluation process named Impact to evaluate teachers. When implemented, Impact was still being written, and not completed. The process was not field tested. Shortly after this a massive firing took place in the D.C. school system. In addition, she refused to make herself available to the Afro-American Segment of the community. Nevertheless, she must have thought that the mayor would shield her from any adverse action. In the opinion of this author, she had absolute...
