Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Report on the Higher Education of Women: Presented to the Corporation of McGill University, October, 1884 In considering from a practical point of View the provision for the higher education of women, two subjects Specially attract our attention. First, the Means and Methods of Educational Train ing, and Secondly, the Examinations and Distinctions to which education leads. These are no doubt closely connected, since education without any examinations or degrees is deprived of its most valuable tests and stimuli, and since examinations tend to guide the efforts of educators while on the other hand examina tions without adequate means of genuine education become mere inducements to cramming. These two departments of the work may, however, be considered separately, with some advantage in so far as the clearness of our conce tions is concerned.
